Chapter 1

Introduction, Short Title and Commencement

1.1 Introduction, Short Title, and Commencement

Anti-Money Laundering (AML) has developed to be of significant importance for financial institutions around the world. The many allegations and revelations that BFIs are used as a vehicle for providing financial services to money launders and terrorists garnered enormous impetus to curb channeling of money derived from crime or aimed at funding terrorism. Moreover, governments are pursuing reforms in regulatory structures and are also cracking down on tax evasion to recover lost revenue. The stringent provisions made in laws and directives reflect the seriousness of this issue; non-compliance of which may cause significant reputational risk as well as may result in adverse consequences for the Bank. Regulators have also been closely monitoring the AML/CFT policies, procedures, guidelines and practices of financial institutions.

In order to prevent the Bank from being used for money laundering and financing of terrorism, the Board of Directors of NIC ASIA Bank (hereinafter referred to as the “Bank”) has approved this policy. This policy has laid down appropriate framework for effective compliance to prevailing Asset (Money) Laundering Prevention Act 2064, (second amendment), Assets (Money) Laundering Prevention Rules, 2073 and Directives issued by Financial Information Unit (FIU) and Nepal Rastra Bank (NRB) from time to time.

ff. Customer Due Diligence (CDD)

Customer Due Diligence is the process of identifying and evaluating the customers and the assessment of customer risk as part of know your customer (KYC) process, allowing banks to better identify, manage, and mitigate the AML related risks. The level of due diligence is based on the risk level of the customer and thus there may be various levels of due diligence prescribed by the regulators or decided by the bank. Currently, following are the categories of due diligence specified in NRB directive:

i. Standard/Normal Customer Due Diligence

This is conducted for low risk customers who do not fall under enhanced and simplified customer due diligence.

ii. Simplified Customer Due Diligence (SCDD)

This can be conducted for customers who fall under low risk customers having characteristics as specified by NRB directive i.e. financial institutions supervised by NRB, customers whose identity is publically available and controlled by national system and other specified by regulator from time to time.

iii. Enhanced Customer Due Diligence (ECDD)

Enhanced Customer Due Diligence is conducted for high risk and medium risk customers. It refers to the additional due diligence pertaining to the identity of the customer, source of income, nature and value of transaction and others specified by directives.

gg. Risk Based Approach (RBA)

The approach of management which focuses on identifying and addressing potential risks of money laundering and terrorism financing. The core of this approach is to creating the match between “risks and controls” by understanding of the ML/FT risks to which the banks are exposed and apply AML/CFT measures in a manner and to an extent which would ensure mitigation of these risks. There is no universally accepted methodology, which prescribe nature and extent of risk based approach. It provides every bank the flexibility to manage their ML/FT risks in their own way.

hh. Suspicious Transaction:

A transaction, including an attempted transaction, whether or not made in cash, which to a person acting in good faith;

- Gives rise to a reasonable ground of suspicious that it may involve proceeds of an offenses specified in law and regulations, regardless of the value involve.
- Seeks to conceal or disguise the nature or origin of funds derived from illegal activities
- Appears to have no economic rationale or bona-fide purpose
- Appears to be in circumstances of unusual, or unjustified complexity
- Appears to be deviated from profile, character and financial status
- Seems to be made with the purpose of evading the legal and regulatory reporting requirements
- Found to be conducted to support the activities relating to terrorism

ii. Suspicious Transaction Report:

A report to be made by Financial Institutions to Final Information Unit on any suspicious transactions or any attempts under the provisions of “Parichhed 3, 7dha- Asset (Money) laundering prevention Act, 2064” and point no. 14 of Unified NRB Directive no. 19/074.

jj. Wire Transfer:

Any transaction carried out on behalf of an originator (both natural persons and legal entities) through the bank by electronic means with a view to making an amount of money available to a beneficiary person at another FI. The originator and the beneficiary may be the same person.

kk. Financial Information Unit (FIU)

In order to work against the money laundering and terrorist financing activities Financial Information Unit (FIU) was established on April 21, 2008 pursuant to section 9 of the Assets (Money) Laundering Prevention Act, 2008 within Nepal Rastra Bank (the Central bank) as an independent unit. It is Nepal's financial intelligence unit. It is a central, national agency responsible for receiving, processing, analyzing and disseminating financial information and intelligence on suspected money laundering and terrorist financing activities.

II. Shell Bank/entity

A bank or entity, which has no physical presence in the country in which it is incorporated, licensed or located, and which is not affiliated with a regulated financial services group that is subject to effective consolidated supervision. For the purpose of this clause, presence of local agent or junior level staff does not constitute physical presence. Shell banks/entities in themselves may not be illegal as they may have legitimate business purposes. However, they can also be a main component of underground activities, especially those based in tax havens.

One of the classic tax avoiding activities can be buying or selling of Shell Companies established in tax havens to disguise actual profits. Furthermore a firm can carry out its international operations through these types of entities and not report to its home country about the sum involved and thereby avoid tax.

mm. Vendors

The term Vendor, for the purpose of this document, denotes any third party who supplies the Bank with any product through transfer of ownership or by with whom such purchases is made by the Bank.

Other than the terms specifically defined hereinabove, the terms used in various sections of this Policy shall have the same meaning as has been defined under various other policy documents of the Bank and the applicable laws of land, and NRB Directive wherever relevant.

1.3 Scope and Applicability:

This policy shall be applicable to all the staffs, Bank functions and structures. If any department, branch or business unit of the Bank is unable, in an exceptional circumstance, to apply the standards set by this policy, they must have pre-facto approval of the Chief Executive Officer (CEO) in recommendation of the Assistant Chief Executive Officer, Chief Support Officer, Chief Risk Officer and Head Compliance or AML implementing Officer.

1.4 Objectives of the Policy

The major objectives of the policy are:

- To lay down a framework to be implemented by the Bank in order to safeguard it against being used for money laundering and financing of terrorism
- To ensure full compliance by the Bank with all applicable legal and regulatory requirements pertaining to money laundering and financing of terrorism, and
- To provide a broad framework for formulation and implementation of various manuals or procedural guidelines that is required for effective AML/CFT & KYC compliance.

1.5 Description of Money Laundering and Financing of Terrorism

a. Money Laundering

The Financial Task Force on Money Laundering defines the money laundering as:

“The goal of a large number of criminal acts is to generate a profit for the individual or group that carries out the act. Money Laundering is the processing of these criminal proceeds to disguise their illegal origin. This process is of critical importance, as it enables the criminal to enjoy these profits without jeopardizing their source.

Illegal arms sales, smuggling, and the activities of organized crime including for example drug trafficking and prostitution can generate huge amounts of proceeds. Embezzlement, insider trading, bribery and computer fraud schemes can also produce large profits and create the incentive to “legitimize” the ill-gotten gains through money laundering.

When a criminal activity generates substantial profits, the individual or group involved must find a way to control the funds without attracting attention to the underlying activity or the persons involved. Criminals do this by disguising the sources, changing the form, or moving the funds to a place where they are less likely to attract attention.

In response to mounting concern over money laundering, the Financial Action Task Force on money laundering (FATF) was established by the G-7 Summit in Paris in 1989 to develop a co-ordinate international response. One of the first tasks of the FATF was to develop Recommendations, 40 in all, which set out the measures national governments should take to implement effective anti-money laundering programs”.

b. Financing of Terrorism

Terrorist financing involves the solicitation, collection or provisions of funds with the intention that they may be used to support terrorist acts or organizations. Funds may stem from both legal and illicit sources. More precisely, according to the International Convention for the Suppression of the Financing of Terrorism, a person commits the crime of financing of terrorism “if the person by any means, directly or indirectly, unlawfully and willfully, provides or collects funds with the intention that they should be used or in the knowledge that they are to be used, in full or in part, in order to carry out” an offense within the scope of the Convention.

The primary goal of individuals or entities involved in the financing of terrorism is therefore not necessarily to conceal the sources of the money but to conceal both the financing and the nature of the financed activity.

c. Money Laundering Process

The Money Laundering consists of the following processes:

- Placement

In the initial or placement stage of money laundering, the launders introduces his illegal profits into the financial system. This might be done by breaking up large amounts of cash into less conspicuous smaller sums that are then deposit directly, into a bank account, or by purchasing a series of monetary instruments (cheques, money orders, etc.) that are then collected and deposited into accounts at another location.

- Layering

After the funds have entered the financial system, the second - or Layering – stage take place. In this phase, the launderer engages in a series of conversions or movements of the funds to distance them from their source. The funds might be channeled through the purchase and sales of investment instruments, or the launderer might simply wire the funds through a series of accounts at various banks across the globe. This use of widely scattered accounts for laundering is especially prevalent in those jurisdictions that do not co-operate in anti-money laundering investigations. In some instances, the launderer might disguise the transfers as payments for goods or services, thus giving them a legitimate appearance.

- Integration

Having successfully processed his criminal profits through the first two phases of the money laundering process, the launderer then moves them to third stage – integration – in which the funds re-enter the legitimate economy. The launderer might choose to invest the funds into real estate, luxury assets, or business ventures.

d. Money Laundering Areas

As money laundering is a necessary consequence of almost all profit generating crime, it can occur practically anywhere in the world. Generally, money launders tend to seek out areas in which there is a low risk of detection due to weak or ineffective anti-money laundering programs. Because the objectives of money laundering is to get the illegal funds back to the individual who generated them, launderers usually prefer to move funds through areas with stable financial systems. Therefore, Banks have been the targets for money launderer.

Money laundering activity may also be concentrated geographically according to the stage the laundered funds have reached. At the placement stage, for example, the funds are usually processed relatively close to the under-lying activity: often but not in every case, in the country where the funds originate.

With the layering phase, the launderer might choose an offshore financial center, a large regional business center, or a world banking center – any location that provides an adequate financial or business infrastructure. At this stage, the laundered funds may also only transit bank accounts at various locations where this can be done without leaving traces of their source or ultimate destination.

Finally, at the integration phase, launderers might choose to invest laundered funds in still other locations if they were generated in unstable economies or locations offering limited investment opportunities

One of the latest trends in money laundering involves use of the new payment technologies like Smart Cards, Online Banking and Electronic Cash etc. The Bank should be vigilant and should administer the robust controlling, monitoring and reporting system to Prevent money laundering and financing of terrorism through such channels.

e. Risks of money laundering and terrorist financing to the banks

Bank is exposed to several risks if it fails to prevent the Bank being used for M/L and F/T activities.

- Reputational risk: The reputation of a business is usually at the core of its success. The ability to attract good employees, customers, funding and business is dependent on reputation. Even if a business is otherwise doing all the right things, if customers are permitted to undertake illegal transactions through that business, its reputation could be irreparably damaged. A strong policy helps to prevent a business from being used as a vehicle for illegal activities.
- Operational risk: This is the risk of direct or indirect loss from faulty or failed internal processes, management and systems. In today's competitive environment, operational excellence is critical for competitive advantage. If AML policy is faulty or poorly implemented, then operational resources are wasted, there is an increased chance of being used by criminals for illegal purposes, time and money is then spent on legal and investigative actions and the business can be viewed as operationally unsound.

- Compliance Risk: Risk of loss due to failure of compliance with key regulations governing the Bank's operations.
- Legal risk: Risk of loss due to any of the above risk or combination thereof resulting into the failure to comply with Law and having a negative legal impact on the Bank. The specific types of negative legal impacts could arise by way of fines, confiscation of illegal proceeds, criminal liability etc.
- Financial risk: Risk of loss due to any of the above risks or combination thereof resulting into the negative financial impact on the Bank.

f. International Initiatives

The international community has acted on many fronts to respond to the growing complexity and the international nature of rapidly evolving ML/FT methods. The emphasis is on promoting international cooperation and establishing a coordinated and effective international AML/CFT regime. Many international agencies have helped countries develop a capacity to prevent and counter ML. The following presents some of the main elements of the global and regional initiatives.

- The Financial Action Task Force (FATF) was established in 1989 by the G-7 countries to respond more effectively to ML. The FATF Forty Recommendations require the criminalization of ML. In addition, the recommendations call on countries to adopt legislative and other measures in order to: freeze, seize and confiscate criminal proceeds; waive bank secrecy laws to permit financial institutions to monitor and report suspicious transactions; protect those reporting these transactions from civil and criminal liability; establish financial investigation units; and, cooperate fully in international law enforcement efforts to combat ML. The FATF Special Recommendations require countries to criminalize the financing of terrorism, terrorist organizations and terrorist acts and to designate these new offences as ML predicate offences. The FATF is also involved in monitoring the progress of members in complying with its recommendations.

- The United Nations Convention on Illicit Trafficking in Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances (Vienna Convention), the UN Convention against Transnational Organized Crime (Palermo Convention), the UN Convention against Corruption and the International Convention for the Suppression of the Financing of Terrorism all contain provisions relating to the tracing, freezing, seizing and confiscation of instrumentalities and proceeds of crime.
- Financial regulation standards are also set by the Basel Committee on Banking Supervision. In 1988, the Basel Committee put forward some basic principles as part of its Statement for the Prevention of Criminal Use of the Banking System for the Purpose of Money Laundering. It has also issued a paper a “sound management of risks related to money laundering and financing of terrorism in 2014”.
- Wolfsberg Group, which is non- governmental organization of 13 large commercial banks founded in AD 2000, develop and publishes financial industry standards for Anti-money laundering (AML), Know Your Customer (KYC) and Counter Terrorist Financing (CTF) policies. Its work is similar to what the Financial Action Task Force on Money Laundering (FATF) does on a government level.
- Many countries have established financial intelligence units (FIUs) as a focal point for the AML efforts and a point at which information is exchanged between financial institutions and law enforcement. Since 1995, a number of these units have begun to work closely together, to exchange information and to coordinate their AML efforts. They formed the Egmont Group which facilitates international exchanges and cooperation among FIUs in relation to both ML and FT.

- Multi-lateral organizations like World Bank, International Monetary Fund, Asian Development Bank also work on preventing ML/FT risks. They also provide financial and technical assistance to countries wishing to implement the FATF 40+9 recommendations. They have also published several papers on the theme of preventing ML/FT risks for the financial industry.
- As part of its work to promote good governance and to fight corruption, the Commonwealth has long been involved in international AML/CFT efforts. In 1993, it made available a Commonwealth Model Law. In 1996, it developed Guidance Notes for the Financial Sector which was revised in 2000 and in 2005 based on best practices.
- Asia Pacific Group on Money Laundering (APG) is an autonomous and collaborative international organization founded in 1997 in Bangkok, Thailand consisting of 41 members. APG members are committed to the effective implementation and enforcement of internationally accepted standards against money laundering and the financing of terrorism. Nepal became the member of APG Group in June 2002.

2.8 International Standards (FATF Recommendations)

Being the member country of Asia Pacific Group on Money Laundering, Nepal has to implement FATF recommendations as required or applicable. FATF introduced forty recommendations in 1990, for the first time, as an initiative to combat money laundering and terrorist financing risks. In 1996 the recommendations were revised to reflect evolving money laundering typologies. These recommendations have been endorsed by more than 130 countries and are being applied by countries in varying extent as the international anti-money laundering standard. FATF reviews recommendations from time to time and publish recommendations with changes or enrichment. The latest publication of recommendations by FATF is on 2012. These recommendations have provided an enhanced, comprehensive and consistent framework of measures for combating money laundering and terrorist financing throughout the world. The FATF recognizes that countries have diverse legal and financial systems and so all cannot implement identical measures to achieve the common objectives, especially over matters of detail. The recommendations therefore set minimum standards for action for countries to implement the detail according to their particular circumstances and constitutional/legal frameworks. The recommendations cover all the, measures that national systems should have in place within their criminal justice and regulatory systems; the preventive measures to be taken by financial institutions and certain other businesses and professions; and the international co-operation.

The major themes on which FATF recommendations have been issued on 2012 relating to money laundering are as follows:

1. Assessing risks & applying a risk-based approach
2. National cooperation and coordination
3. Money laundering offence
4. Confiscation and Provisional measures
5. Terrorist financing offence

6. Targeted financial sanctions related to terrorism & terrorist financing
7. Targeted financial sanctions related to proliferation
8. Non-profit organizations
9. Financial institution secrecy laws
10. Customer due diligence
11. Record Keeping
12. Politically exposed persons
13. Correspondent banking
14. Money or value transfer services
15. New technologies
16. Wire transfers
17. Reliance on third parties
18. Internal controls and foreign branches and subsidiaries
19. Higher-risk countries
20. Reporting of suspicious transactions
21. Tipping-off and confidentiality
22. DNFBPs: Customer due diligence
23. DNFBPs: Other measures
24. Transparency and beneficial ownership of legal persons
25. Transparency and beneficial ownership of legal arrangements
26. Regulation and supervision of financial institutions
27. Powers of supervisors
28. Regulation and Supervisions of DNFBPs

Chapter 3

NIC ASIA Bank's Policy on prevention of Money Laundering & Financing of Terrorism

This policy represents the strategic orientation and management policies for preventing risks related to money laundering and terrorist financing chosen autonomously by the bank. This policy also has set expectations, standards and behaviors to prevent ML/FT risks for the bank. Following are the policies taken by the bank:

3.1 Full adherence to laws and regulations

The bank is committed to full compliance with the money laundering laws and regulations applicable in the country.

3.2 Implementing evolving national and international best practices

The bank adopts policy of not only adhering country's legal and regulatory requirement, but also adopts international best practices to the extent reasonable and practicable to effectively manage ML/FT risks in the bank.

3.3 Use of Automated AML solution

It shall be the policy of the bank to make maximum use of technology and upgrade the systems and procedures in accordance with the upcoming challenges regarding ML/FT. Likewise, bank shall implement / use automated AML solutions across its network for effective KYC management, risk assessment, transaction monitoring etc.

3.4 Risk Appetite and Tolerance

The Bank shall pursue a zero tolerance policy on all matters related to AML/CFT compliance. The bank shall take action for resolving issues in high priority.

3.5 Customer Acceptance

The bank will not accept any person/entities as its customer if the customer and beneficial owner of the customer cannot be identified, verified and thus bank is unable to have customer's risk profiling as required by the Act, Rules and Directive

3.6 Risk Based Approach (RBA)

The RBA principals propose identification, assessment, understanding and mitigation of ML/FT risk including explicit consideration to key risk factors such as customers, products/services, transactions, country, geographic areas and coverage of banking activities and delivery channel and with varying degrees of impact and levels of risk. It is a continuous process, carried out with a dynamic approach.

The bank shall adopt Risk Based Approach (RBA) in managing its ML/FT risks and assess potential ML/FT risks and implement measures and controls commensurate with the identified risk. The bank shall strengthen, make priorities and perform its activities to manage higher risks first and ensure that greatest risks receive the highest attention. RBA shall be adopted in all activities that are performed to prevent ML/FT risks in the bank.

For the effective assessment, understanding, management and mitigation of ML/FT risks, bank shall adopt three line of defense. Identification and analysis of ML/FT risks and effective implementation of policies and procedures to encounter the identified risk is the feature of effective and sound risk management. The line of defense shall act as safeguard of the bank during the adversities and shall be liable for effective risk management.

a. First line of defense:

Business units and departments shall function as a first line of defense to prevent ML/FT risks. Business shall promote AML/CFT principles while doing business. Businesses shall own and manage the ML/FT risks arising from the business. Persons involved in business functions must ensure that appropriate controls are in place and operating effectively. Business units shall make an appropriate risk assessment before introducing any product or service and implement required mitigations. It shall be the responsibility of compliance department to assist business units/departments in this process.

b. Second line of defense:

Compliance Department shall function as a second line of defense to prevent ML/FT risks in the bank. The Compliance Department shall monitor overall legal, regulatory and internal compliance of policies, procedures and guidelines. It shall also provide businesses with regulatory compliance expertise and guidance, set standards and trainings for businesses to manage and oversee ML/FT risks.

c. Third line of defense

This shall be performed by internal audit. The internal audit shall review the activities of the first two lines of defense with the purpose to ensure that legislation, regulations and internal policies are processed effectively.

3.8 Commitment of Senior Management

Senior management of the bank is fully committed to establishing appropriate policies, procedures and controls for the prevention of money laundering and terrorist financing and ensuring their effectiveness and compliance with all relevant legal and regulatory requirements. Senior management also commits to ensure that ML/FT risks are understood and appropriately mitigated in the bank. It shall also ensure that effectiveness of controls shall be regularly reviewed. The senior management of the bank shall promote compliance as a core value and culture of the bank and the bank will not enter into, or maintain, business relationships that are associated with excessive ML/FT risks which cannot be mitigated effectively.

3.9 Prohibited customers and transactions

The Chief Executive Officer shall appoint upon the recommendation of AML Implementing Officer. The Branch AML Implementing Officer shall have a direct reporting line to Regional AML Implementing Officer and Regional AML Implementing Officer shall have a direct reporting to AML Implementing Officer for AML/CFT related issues. For other functions, they shall report as per their job description.

3.11 Development and implementation of procedural guideline

For the purpose of executing this policy, the bank shall develop and implement procedural guidelines on various functional areas which interpret/implement this policy and set standards for each business in line with the law, regulations and regulatory guidelines. Compliance with such procedures and guidelines will be monitored regularly by the Compliance Department.

3.12 Know your Customer (KYC) and Customer Due Diligence

The Bank is aware that availability of sufficient customer information underpins all other AML procedures and should be seen as a critical element in the effective management of ML risks. The detail regarding customer acceptance shall be incorporated in specific guideline which lays down the criteria for the acceptance of customers. The guideline would form an integral part of the bank's AML Policy. The KYC procedures would be based on the following principles:

a. Customer Identification and verification

Customer Identification Process (CIP) is a critical part of the Customer Due Diligence process. It is essential to establish the true identity of the customers and be assured that the customers are not involved in any kind of money laundering and terrorist activities. Some of the key information that the bank requires to collect includes;

- Information regarding the family member's
- Full customer identification evidence
- The reason for the relationship recorded with sufficient detail to provide an understanding of the purpose of the account and the nature of the customer's business or employment.
- An indication of the anticipated volume and type of activity to be conducted through account
- Bank's understanding of the source of funds routed through the account
- Recording of the underlying source of wealth in case of High Net Worth accounts.

The bank shall take all reasonable steps to verify the identity of customers, including the beneficial owners of corporate entities (including Trusts) and individuals as well, and the principles behind customers who are acting as agents. The Bank will take all reasonable steps to ensure that "Customer Due Diligence" information is collected and kept up-to-date.

The Bank shall obtain thumb impression of account holder and that of account operator also where the account holder and account operator is different. In case of legal entity, thumb impression of account operators are to be obtained.

b. Special Provisions for Identification of Politically Exposed Person (PEP):

The Bank shall establish a risk management system to identify whether a customer, person seeking to be customer or a beneficial owner of a customer or transaction is a politically exposed person. It shall adopt the following additional measures if it finds the customer or beneficial owner is PEP:

- to obtain approval from senior management official while establishing a business relationship,

- to acquire approval from senior management official to continue the business relation with an existing customer if he is identified as a politically-exposed person
- to take all reasonable measures to identify the source of amount/fund and property of such customer or beneficial owner,
- to conduct ongoing monitoring of such customer and the business relationship,
- to apply Enhanced CDD measures

Provisions stipulated above shall be applicable to the family members and associated persons of foreign PEP or domestic PEP identified as high risk.

c. Beneficial Owners:

When establishing business relationship or conducting transaction with the customer, the bank shall identify the beneficial owner, verify the identity of the beneficial owner taking reasonable measures to. Identification of beneficial owner shall be performed as per the procedural guideline framed under this policy.

Bank need to identify the ultimate beneficiary owner up to the level of natural persons exercising control over the legal person by the means of ownership interests/chain of control/holding senior positions etc. Bank need to identify the beneficial owner where there is a share holding of 10% or more in the entity.

Record of transactions relating to beneficial owner to be retained for atleast 5 years form the date of end of business relationship or transactions.

d. KYC Risk Grading

The bank shall adopt three levels of KYC risk grading system in the bank. They are:

- i. Low risk
- ii. Medium risk
- iii. High risk

All customer accounts and relationships shall be assigned a specific KYC risk grade. Risk grading shall be carried out as per the procedural guideline framed under this policy.

e. Risk based Customer Due Diligence

The bank shall follow risk based approach in conducting customer's due diligence as shown below:

- i. Standard customer due diligence- for low risk customers
- ii. Enhanced Customer due diligence- for medium and high risk customers

In case of enhanced customer due diligence, branches shall also conduct social and public media domain search in addition to the existing procedure.

It shall be the policy of the bank not to adopt simplified due diligence unless it is made mandatory by the regulator.

f. Periodic review and update of Customer Due Diligence

The bank shall view CDD as an ongoing process and therefore, CDD information of the customers shall be regularly updated. The frequency of reviews and update shall be determined by the level of risk associated with the relationship. Higher risk, high value or high volume accounts shall, for example, be reviewed at more frequent intervals. Any shortcomings in CDD information highlighted by a review must be corrected as soon as possible. Action must be taken to obtain additional information about existing customers where it is apparent that existing CDD information is out of date or inadequate. Any information on change in the ownership and/or change in persons controlling a relationship or any other worthy/requiring information shall be taken as a trigger to update CDD information. While updating KYC information and Documents, only changed and outdated information / documents are to be obtained instead of whole documents.

Further, in line with the clause no: 8.1 of NRB Unified Directive no 19/2074, related KYC information and documents including ECDD of all customer including beneficial owners shall be reviewed and updated wherever required by not later than Ashadh 2075.

Apart from above, review and update of KYC information and details to be immediately updated upon trigger of below events:

1. Atleast on annual basis for high risk customers
2. Any deviations in the declared transactions
3. Account with incomplete KYC information or details
4. Where Bank's feel suspicious on any information or details provided by the customers.

Further, Bank need to main a separate list of account holders, the KYC of which could not be updated even after regular follow up or where the customer is out of contact.

g. Rejection or closure of customer relationship or transactions:

Refuse/Report any transaction where, based on explanations offered by the customer or other information, reasonable grounds exist to suspect that the funds may not source from a legitimate source or are to be used for an illegal activity or as to be used for financing of terrorism or if customer/applicant/beneficiary refuses or fails to submit required information/ documents.

3.13 Due diligence of Employees

Employees are also emerging as the great source of ML/FT risks for the bank. Therefore, the bank will arrange adequate screening mechanism as an integral part of recruitment/hiring process of staffs. The Human Resource Department of the bank shall conduct due diligence of employees before appointing as staff and during service period on annual basis. Due diligence of employees shall be performed as per procedural guideline framed under this policy.

3.14 Due Diligence of vendors, service providers, consultants and business partners Vendors, service providers, business partners, consultants, etc. also can pose significant reputational risk to the bank if they are found involved in money laundering and terrorist activities and/or use the relationship for money laundering or terrorist activities. Therefore, the Bank shall not establish relationship with such parties if they are found involved in money laundering or terrorist financing before establishing a relationship. The bank shall conduct regular due diligence of these parties and additional risk management tools will be used, if risk is identified. Similarly, the bank shall report identified suspicious activities found to FIU as its regulatory liability. The execution of due diligence of such parties shall be done as per related procedural guideline. Due diligence of vendors, service providers shall be performed as per procedural guideline framed under this policy.

3.15 Due diligence of correspondent banking relationships

Correspondent banking is the provision of banking services by one bank (the correspondent bank) to another bank (the respondent bank). Large international banks typically act as correspondents for several other banks around the world. Respondent banks may be provided with a wide range of services, including cash management (e.g. interest-bearing accounts in a variety of currencies), international transfers of funds, cheque clearing, and foreign exchange services. It would be the bank's policy to obtain sufficient information about correspondent banks to understand the nature of their business & activities. When considering entering into a cross-border correspondent banking relationship, the bank shall carry out due diligence measures i.e. ownership, Management Structure, major business activities, customers, purpose of the Account, location, etc. In addition, research will be conducted from publicly available information on the correspondent bank's business activities, their reputation, and quality of supervision and whether the institution has been subject to a money laundering or terrorist financing investigation or any regulatory action. Due Diligence of Correspondent Banking Relationship shall be performed as per the procedural guidelines framed under this policy.

3.16 Recognition and reporting of suspicious activities and transactions

Make prompt reports of suspicious transactions, or proposed transactions or any other money laundering and financing of terrorism issues through the internal channels as prescribed by the Bank from time to time to the relevant authorities as required by statutory regulations. Guideline for Detecting Suspicious Transaction issued by FIU states that “Suspicious Transaction Reports (STRs) include detailed information about transactions that are or appear to be suspicious. The goal of STRs filings is to help the Financial Information Unit (FIU) of Nepal identify individuals groups and organizations involved in fraud, terrorist financing, money laundering, and other crimes. The purpose of a STR is to report known or suspected violations of law or suspicious activity observed by financial institutions subject to the provision related Asset (Money) Laundering Prevention Act, 2008.

FIU requires an STR to be filed by a financial Institution when the financial institution suspects insider abuse by an employee, violations of law or more that involve potential money laundering or violation of existing AML/CFT law, or when a financial institution knows that a customer is operating as an unlicensed money services business.

The general characteristics of suspicious financial transaction as mentioned in Guidelines for Detecting Suspicious Transaction issued by Financial Information Unit (FIU) are as follows:

1. Transactions having unclear economical and business target,
2. Transaction conducted in relatively large amount cash and/or conducted repeatedly and unnaturally.
3. Transaction conducted differently from that of usually and normally conducted by the relevant customer.
4. Huge, complex and unusual transaction.

Any transaction which, based on the available information (provided by customer or from other source), reasonably appears not to be from a legitimate source or appears to be used for money laundering & financing of terrorism shall be refused.

Reports of suspicious transactions, or proposed transactions, shall be furnished, through the appropriate internal channels and, where required by regulatory guidelines, to the relevant external authorities.

Full cooperation shall be extended for any lawful request made by government agencies during their investigations into money laundering without “tipping-off” the customer.

No information of customer collected through CDD shall be provided or disclosed in any type of conditions by any ways to none, except to the agency, organization or official legally mandated to receive such information.

Detailed procedure for reporting of suspicious transactions shall be as described in the Procedural Guidelines framed under this Policy.

There shall be clear documented procedurals in place to enable any member of staff to report knowledge or suspicion of money laundering as soon as possible. The process must include appropriate procedures to allow for the escalation of reports to senior management, and where appropriate, disclosure to external authorities.

Internal reporting procedures may allow for staff to consult with line management, who may wish to comment on any proposed report before escalating a report to the management. However, the procedures must allow all staff to make a report directly to the management.

Copies of disclosures made to the authorities must be retained, together with a record of any enquires undertaken to support the report. Similarly a record of the reasons for non-disclosure to the authorities of any internal reports must be retained to demonstrate that at the time there was insufficient suspicion to justify making such a disclosure.

Following the making of a disclosure, full and prompt co-operative must be given to all legal requests to provide further information to the authorities to assist their investigations into money laundering.

Under no circumstances should a customer be informed that a disclosure has been made, as such notification could prejudice an existing or potential investigation by the authorities.

Where, following a disclosure, the authorities allow the relationship to continue and management decisions to retain the account, subsequent activity must be subject to particularly close vigilance. Any new activity that adds to the original suspicion must be disclosed.

3.17 Risk assessment

The Bank shall carry out risk assessment of threats and vulnerabilities related to money laundering and terrorism financing as required by the Assets (Money) Laundering Prevention Act 2064 and its subsequent amendments, NRB Unified Directive 19/074 and its subsequent amendments, and AML Rules 2073. The risk assessment helps to identify and assess threats and vulnerabilities in the Bank's operating environment pertaining to Money Laundering and Terrorism Financing and thereby the risks the Bank is likely to encounter.

- a. The bank shall identify and assess the money laundering or terrorist financing risks before launch of new product, service, business practice, use of new technology and initiating non-face to face customer services or transaction.
- b. The risk assessment shall include risks coming out from following sources:
 - ML/FT risks in customer (nature and type),
 - ML/FT risks in Transactions
 - ML/FT risks in products,
 - ML/FT risks in services,
